CHASING RAINBOWS.

©CM 3729c R

A terrific electric storm sends Al, Tom, the cat, and Milton the mouse, dashing into the house. As storms do, this one ends. In the sky appears a beautiful rainbow.

Al tells his pals of the story of the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. The gold diggers start off in different directions. They each arrive at an end of the rainbow and start digging. Oh, how they dig. They excavate until they break into each other's tunnel. At the top is an end of a rope. Visions of gold enter their heads and Tom and Milton pull for dear life.

At the surface, Al is trying to drink some clear, cool water from his well but a triggling at the rope prevents his quenching his thirst. The tugging becomes more and more forceful until he is pulled down the well.

Alas, all of Tom's and Milt's work has been in vain for at the last heavy pull at the rope, Al comes through, and the water of the well with him.

The trio, annoyed by the trickling water, look about them, find that they are still in the room at home, and that the rainbow chase has been just a dream. Brought back to prosaic things, Al chases Tom and Milt away.
